Stuph & Thangs

JUSTICE DEPT. FINALLY WAKES UP . . .

MOVING? Please use form inside paper and give full information. Mailing list is run on Friday following week.

For most of its life the Peckers & Stockyards Administration has been regarded as a no-nonsense tiger in its efforts to round up the bad guys in the livestock & meat trade and a great deal of their utility stemmed from the fact that the Justice Department, which has to prosecute malefactors, couldn't seem to get any more excited about theft, embezzlement or swindles in the trade than they could about the news somebody had a chicken thief they wanted to see prosecuted.

No doubt, the thing that finally got the attention of Justice was the American Beef Packers fiasco which by its sheer size, ruinous into millions and millions of dollars, got the enforcement officials aware of the fact that innocent farmers and ranchers and leaders were the victims of crime every bit as hurtful as bank robbery or illegal payments, or highjacking.

Replacement Cattle in Mixed Trade Last Week, Drought Hurts

Kansas City, June 17 (USDA) - National Feeder Cattle and Calf Summary. Approximately 198,000 this week, 208,500 last week, 197,000 last year.

Feeder cattle and calves at many points in the United States sold steady to 2.00 lower, yearlings in the Southeast calves 2.00 to as much as 7.00 lower. Some exceptions to the general tone were Sioux Falls, South Dakota steady to 1.00 higher on steers under 700 lbs.

St. Joseph and Kansas City steady to 1.00 higher on feeder calves, Arkansas steady to 2.00 higher on heifers and Washington state steady to 2.00 higher on thin steers under 350 lbs. suitable to graze.

The collapse of finished cattle prices had put a general damper on yearling steers and heifers, particularly in the Southeast, but the situation on thin calves and lightweight yearlings had been dictated by moisture, the dry areas to a self-sufficiency and the relatively sparse locations to the country that have had good recent rains are to a buying position on thin under 350 lbs.

FDA and EPA Launch New Attacks on Use of Feed Additives, Pesticides, Careless Use Blamed for Problems

Government agencies concerned with agricultural and other chemicals appeared to be intensifying their opposition to feed additives and pesticides recently and with threats to ban some additional products which have been widely used for many years. The move heated flow of criticism was highlighted by the threat to withdraw sulfa drugs from use in swine production unless violations of residues found in pork did not "improve significantly". This blast from Dr. P. D. Cazier of the FDA. On the other side of the picture the Environmental Protection Agency on May 25 announced a public inquiry to study the advantages and disadvantages of residues found in pork did not "improve significantly". This blast from Dr. P. D. Cazier of the FDA. The task force reported the most causes of violative residues "is producer neglect, or inattention in using sulfa residues" and cited these factors: "Knowing shipping swine to (CONT. ON PAGE 8)

...but this is not economically feasible at this time—hence the program will be to get a comparison of each breeder's cattle with its contemporaries on weight gain, frame growth, carcass composition and industry acceptability.
Any breeder may put proper speed bulls born September through December, 1976, which have undergone the required health program in the test and withdraw them anytime he wishes if he so desires. Data will not be published on any of the bulls if the owner so desires.
Approximate cost of the program is $300 per bull.
For Top Cut male eligibility September bulls will be eliminated and only the October-December bulls approved for this sale. Only those bulls initially nominated by the breeders are eligible for selection to the Top Cut Sale, but a breeder may choose not to offer his bull for sale after nomination.

th livestock and meat trade and this has come as more than a surprise to a veteran observer of this business.

For years & years the law enforcement people and inspectors for the Southwest Cattle Raisers Assn., had run up some pretty good scores in their "cattle" livestock thieves, only to see their courts deal out a slap on the wrist or a suspended sentence and very few times punishment enough to make the crook genuinely regret his crime.

The wheel has turned as the prosecutors have at long last recognized the seriousness of the situation and that theft, embezzlement and swindling in livestock and meat transactions is every bit as serious as these same practices in other economic fields.

Hardly a week goes by now when our mail does not bring news of some culprit getting hit and hit hard for dishonesty. History is replete with instances of where farmers and ranchers were not paid for their livestock, and many of the failures were on par with the ABP affair, but simply did not involve as much money.

One other thing that has been a great help in bringing these practices under control is the fact that the livestock producers and feeders are giving some real ability to take their case to the authorities through their livestock and farm organizations. They have developed the ability to "sound the bell" and to do it by presenting a unified front against practices that have been harmful to them.

For too many years the farm & ranch folks were inclined to go their own individual ways, and not at all inclined to work together against things that were too big for them to handle alone.

More power to the Justice Department and the Packers and Stockyards Administration and to the livestock associations and feeders associations and with the way things seem to be going right now one of the main hazards of their business of providing food for the United States and the rest of the world can be eliminated. If they keep the pressure on the bad guys and get the crooks outta circulation or hit 'em hard enough in the pocketbook to take the fun out of dishonesty.

Chemical Warfare

slaughter without following the proper withdrawal time for the drug. Even though these hogs have been consuming medicated feed.

feed and swine marketing practices conducted to withdrawing the drug at the proper time, such as selling hogs through the market take an upturn, even though these hogs have been consuming medicated feed.

Casler related proposed actions such as extended withdrawal periods for sulfa drugs, more vigorous followup inspections and prosecution of violators.

as well as additional educational programs. With the highly refined methods of searching for residues, which enable detecting at traces of residues in the parts per billion range, the threat of prosecution of violators becomes a serious one to feeders who play fast and loose with the regulations on withdrawal periods.

Meanwhile, Cammlester Donald Kennedy's plan to halt the use of antibiotics as a feed additive in animal husbandry and to allow use of these drugs only on a veterinary prescription, has been received coolly by the vets. Veterinarians say the matter of prescribing antibiotics will increase their responsibilities and liabilities and this procedure would be hard to police. There is also the matter of a scarcity of vets in many sections of the country which would pose problems for livestock producers who need the drugs.

It is obvious that the FDA, under guidance of Dr. Kennedy, has no intention of relaxing their "chemical warfare" against drugs, pesticides and insecticides which they suspect might be harmful, even though the product has not proven to be hazardous. It is also obvious that President Carter is fully informed of these moves and is backing them.

An example of how the FDA is fighting back at critics surfaced this week in the matter of the proposed ban on saccharin. FDA counterchecked opponents of the ban by coming up with another convenient Canadian study which claimed to have illustrated that a percentage of men, who developed bladder cancer, had also been users of the artificial sweetener, although comparable questionnaires on women failed to show similar results. The saccharin ban had been opposed by Sen. Ted Kennedy, who had suggested an 18-month delay until more definitive tests could be made under U.S. supervision. The "new" Canadian "proof" was rushed by Dr. Kennedy to Senator Kennedy to try to stall congressional action.

There can be no doubt, the battle has been joined between chemical manufacturers and the FDA and EPA on several fronts, and the farmers and ranchers are squarely in the middle.

Kennedy's plan to halt the use of antibiotics as a feed additive in animal husbandry and to allow use of these drugs only on a veterinary prescription, has been received coolly by the vets. Veterinarians say the matter of prescribing antibiotics will increase their responsibilities and liabilities and this procedure would be hard to police. There is also the matter of a scarcity of vets in many sections of the country which would pose problems for livestock producers who need the drugs.

It is obvious that the FDA, under guidance of Dr. Kennedy, has no intention of relaxing their "chemical warfare" against drugs, pesticides and insecticides which they suspect might be harmful, even though the product has not proven to be hazardous. It is also obvious that President Carter is fully informed of these moves and is backing them.

An example of how the FDA is fighting back at critics surfaced this week in the matter of the proposed ban on saccharin. FDA counterchecked opponents of the ban by coming up with another convenient Canadian study which claimed to have illustrated that a percentage of men, who developed bladder cancer, had also been users of the artificial sweetener, although comparable questionnaires on women failed to show similar results. The saccharin ban had been opposed by Sen. Ted Kennedy, who had suggested an 18-month delay until more definitive tests could be made under U.S. supervision. The "new" Canadian "proof" was rushed by Dr. Kennedy to Senator Kennedy to try to stall congressional action.

There can be no doubt, the battle has been joined between chemical manufacturers and the FDA and EPA on several fronts, and the farmers and ranchers are squarely in the middle.

Milestones Reached In Screwworm Program

Mission — The U.S. Department of Agriculture Screwworm Eradication Program reached two milestones in the "Mission 77: Stamp Out Screwworms" campaign on June 17, reports Dr. James E. Novy, director of field operations.

It was the end of the first week since April that no screwworm cases were reported in Texas. The latest confirmed case, from Brewster County, was identified in the laboratory June 8.

It was also the end of the first June week since June 20, 1964, that Texas was screwworm free. In years before the program started, June was normally the month with most severe screwworm problems.

Novy says 29 cases of the parasite have been recorded in Texas so far this year. By June 17 of last year the total was 3,441.
